6 weeks	In this instructional focus, students will use a variety of text features and digital tools to locate, ask, answer, clarify, and gain meaning, particularly identifying the main topic, from informational text. They will understand key details by generating questions and locating answers. To prepare students for writing, they will gather information or recall experiences in collaborative conversations using the rules of discussion. Students will be able to describe the connection between a series of historical events, scientific ideas or concepts, or steps in technical procedures in a text (NOTE: this means comparing/contrasting between historical events—or—between scientific concepts—or—steps in a technical features. Ex. Voting before Women’s Rights vs. After Women’s Rights; freezing point vs. boiling point; how to read a graph vs. how to read a map). Teachers will assess all students to determine what RF standards need to be taught to each student. Students who need additional support will be provided explicit instruction on the RF standards grades K-5.
